Two more roads are OK'd for water lines

Roy Collett, chairman of the Morgan County Water District, last week announced that the board has added to more communities to a list scheduled for water line extensions to be funded under a recent $1 million appropriation approved for the county.

The communities added by the district board are Mockingbird Road and Lick Branch Road. Following is a list of the other proposed line extensions: Daniel Cemetery Road, Upper and Lower Sand Lick Roads, Buckner Branch, Silverhill Branch, Lonnie Wright Road, Stingy Fork, Old House

Road, and Shop Branch.

In order to serve this area, construction of a water storage tank and a pump station will be necessary somewhere in this portion of the county, said Water District Manager Barbara Stacy.

She said engineers and the water district staff are looking at possible locations for the tank and pump facilities and are contacting landowners.

Collett said the board and engineering staff anticipate having the project ready to advertise for bids by October.

Weather dampened attendance but not spirits at Festival

Event shut down Sat. due to severe storm, crowds evacuated

By Miranda Cantrell James

Although attendance was down compared to other years due to five inches of rain that fell here over the weekend, it did not dampen Sorghum Festival goers' enthusiasm despite early closure due to severe storms Saturday evening.

Morgan County Judge Executive and Sorghum Festival Committee Co-Chair Tim Conley estimated that approximately 15,000-18,000 people attended the 36th annual three-day event, which included local crafts, food and entertainment.

Conley said that for a rainy festival, attendance was typical despite the weather. "This was probably the wettest festival we have ever had, but everyone seemed well-pleased," Conley said.

Despite the positive feedback, officials were forced to shut down the festival 5:30 p.m. Saturday when severe weather threatened the area.

"The crowd was evacuated from all streets in 25 minutes without any accidents," Conley said. "After evacuation the wind picked up and the big tent lost approximately 30 poles, but thanks to city employees, festival committee members and local fire departments, we were able to set them up again for Sunday."

Conley credits the successful evacuation to E-911 Director John Conley, local fire departments and emergency personnel.

"John gave us continuous weather updates, and we had several meetings to discuss evacuation plans," Conley said. "Local fire department members and emergency personnel were also on standby all day, and they moved everyone out before the storm hit."

Rain gauge tells the tale. Heavy downpours throughout the weekend put a damper on attendance at the Sorghum Festival. Rainfall totaled five inches here from Friday morning through Sunday morning when skies finally cleared.

"There was no way to improve on the evacuation effort — everyone involved handled the situation extremely well. Everything was done correctly, and in a very professional manner."

Conley said festival crafters and vendors also supported the decision.

"The salespeople said we did the right thing," Conley said. "Safety was their first concern, and we greatly appreciate that. Unfortunately, we also had to cancel most of Saturday's Main Street entertainment in addition to closing the craft and food booths."

Some local schools show rapid progress

Tests show others also are progressing but at a slower pace

CATS scores released last week by the state Department of Education showed that over the past two years most Kentucky schools advanced on the statewide achievement test, including all Morgan County schools.

Ezel Elementary School, which has 189 students enrolled, was among the 44 Kentucky schools to reach or exceed an overall goal of 100—the goal set for all schools to achieve by the year 2014.

Ezel Elementary, which was among the ten state elementary schools in the state with the best test scores, achieved an overall score for the 2004-2006 testing period of 195, exceeding its goal of 86.3 and achieved a combined average score of 107.1.

Cannel City Elementary, with an enrollment of 106 students, also exceeded its goal of 78.6, scoring an overall 104 on its CATS assessment tests for a combined average score of 94.3.

Wrigley Elementary scored an overall 97, exceeding its two-year goal of 87.7 for a combined average of 91.8 points. The student enrollment at Wrigley is 136 this year.

East Valley Elementary exceeded its goal of 75.4 with an overall score of 83 points and a combined average of 81.9. East Valley has 169 students.

West Liberty Elementary, while continuing to progress, failed to attain its goal of 80.1 points, but nearly made it, scoring an overall 90 points for a combined average score of 80. WLES has 376 students.

Morgan County Middle School, with an enrollment of 487, and Morgan County High School, which has 677 students, both fell short of their goals, but continued to progress.

Under the Commonwealth Accountability Testing System (CATS), schools set two-year goals, based on what gains they need to make in every two-year cycle to reach 100 by 2014. The average score for all Kentucky schools for the 2004-2006 cycle was 80.4, an increase of 4.3 points from the test scores two years ago.

Schools are tested every year but are judged on progress only every two years. This year's testing showed that reading scores are continuing to improve across the state, while math scores remain low.

The 2006 CATS scores for each Morgan County school are published on Page 3.

Morgan artist honors Cannel Coal miners with barn picture

Local artist Sherry Robinson, of Cannel City, recently painted the coal miner picture shown above on fellow Cannel City resident Flora Perkins's barn to honor past Cannel Coal miners, including Perkins's father, Mike Benton.

Benton was born and raised on Brushy Fork and was forced to work in the coal mine at age 12 following his parents' unfortunate death. He mined for 50 years and was injured twice in underground cave-ins, and eventually became blind in one eye.

Benton later married and had seven children. He moved to Cannel City to be closer to the school house.

Robinson said she developed the picture from a quilt block she designed for Perkins. She would like to extend a special thanks to Andy and Todd Patrick for hanging the sign.

St. Claire gets $1.5 million for research facility

U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-05) recently announced that the Economic Development Administration (EDA) has awarded $1.5 million toward construction of the Regional Center for Health Education and Research facility at St. Claire Medical Center. The project, co-sponsored by Morehead State University (MSU), will provide healthcare professionals with expanded and new educational and training opportunities.

"This award is great news for our regional and a huge step forward in attracting world class talent and providing top-level training to health care practitioners," Rogers said. "St. Claire and Morehead State University continue to lead the pack in improving the health and welfare of southern and Eastern Kentuckians. This federal grant shows their cooperation and hard work making a difference.

The Center will create 522 new job and generate $13.1 million in private investment. In fiscal year 2003, Rogers secured $150,000 for project planning. The total project is $28 million.

A lot of shavin's

Retired West Liberty businessman Halcomb Marshall was spotted recently sitting under a shade tree in his yard on Keeton Heights doing a little whittlin', as evidenced by the pile of cedar shavings at his feet. According to a friend, when Halcomb goes to whittlin', he whittles! Sometimes up to five hours a day, weather permitting. Anybody need any kindling?

A PRAYER FOR PEACE

Oh, God our help in ages last, our hope in years to be, Look down upon this troubled world and see our need of thee. For in this age of unrest, with violence all around we need thy hand to lead us to higher, safer ground, without thy help and counsel we are helpless to restore and safety and security in our hearts and homes once more, and give us strength and courage to be honorable and true and to place our trust implicitly in unseen things and you. Keep us kind and humble and fill our hearts with love, which in the selfish, greedy world man has so little of. Forgive our transgressions and help us find the way to a better world for everyone where man is in peace each day. (Submitted by Alpha Clevenger)

Household Hints

- Use a blow dryer for ear ache. Gently blow warm air into one's ear once or twice. The warm air will help stop the ache.
- To help diarrhea take 1 to 2 small servings of generously sweetened blackberry juice. It usually works.
- It is said that taking 1 to 3 ginseng tablets daily will help lower blood sugar levels.

Growing at Grace

It certainly looked like it was going to be a total wash-out, but just before 1 p.m. this past Sunday, September 24, the rain stopped, the sun shined out, and Grace Baptist Church proceeded with our Sunday service on Main Street at the Sorghum Festival!

We hope everyone who came to listen to our music and watch our youth teams perform at the Sorghum Festival got as much of a blessing as we did! We have a remarkable and talented group of young people at Grace Baptist Church who delight in praising God through the youth ministries. We really are blessed by our children and teens and all the adults who work tirelessly with them in order to further their talent and devotion. The crowd seemed to especially like little 22-month-old Sami Hensley's performance with "Hands of Praise".

"Grace in Motion Puppeteers" always does a great job, and our latest venture, taught by Chase Frederick, the cup stackers, is improving greatly. As Pastor Mike Lindon points out, "this is the way we grow our church". We thank "Ridge Runner Gospel Boys" and New Beginnings Church of God Praise and Worship Team, "Nu Kreations" for sharing this time with us.

We invite everyone to come to our second annual Outdoor Community Singing, which will be this coming Saturday, September 30, 2006, beginning at 2 p.m. and going as long as it should. We will have free food and drinks, entertainment for the kids and a lot of good groups of singers. If it rains, we will move it inside. Come out and enjoy some good fellowship!

Grace Baptist Church is located on Rt. 191 in Malone. We love having visitors/guests and everyone is welcome!

To The Editor of The Licking Valley Courier,

What a blessing you are and have been to not only your local community folk, but to countless of us that have transplanted elsewhere. The paper is a highlight of my week.

Another subject, two young men from West Liberty came to Dayton, Ohio in the mid-forties and rented a sleeping room from my dad and mom, Jack and Lula Terrell. Their last name was Nickell and were so well mannered and nice. Could one of them have been Lynn? I am Betty Terrell Cunningham and always wondered what happened in their lives. My cousins are Ray and Loretta Terrell, of West Liberty.

A Funny

At one time Gershwin thought of taking some lessons from Ravel in Paris, but nothing came of it. Later a story went the rounds explaining what happened. Gershwin had asked the French composer for lessons, and was answered with the question: "How much do you earn a year from your compositions?"

"Between one hundred and two hundred thousand dollars," replied Gershwin.

"That it is I who must ask you to teach me to compose."

Ghost of Winding Stair

Deal or no deal - How the Ghost saw it

It was a lazy summer Monday in northern Morgan County in a small spot in the road called Wrigley. It was Sept. 18, 2006, and the Iraqy war was at full tilt with bodies being mutilated everyday, sometimes 50 and 60. In Morgan County, the Judge Executive election was startin' to heat up between Mike Gevedon and incumbent Tim Conley, but to-night the people of Wrigley weren't interested in none of that.

The only thing bein' talked about this fateful day was the PTO meetin' that was gonna take place that night.

Flyers were bein' handed out and as I walked into the Wrigley 7-711, I was handed one. I asked what they was all about and one of the men sittin' around the table spoke up and said, "Somebody at the school board was a tryin' to take the elementary school out of Wrigley."

The gunfight at the O.K. Corral or maybe the Battle of the Little Big Horn didn't have nothin' on the ambush that was about to happen at the Wrigley School.

A crowd gathered at 6:00 and the parkin' lot was full. One thing for shore, it seemed crystal clear that if the Wrigley School went down, the good people of Wrigley, Redwine, Ditney, Blairs Mill, and 519 was a prepared to go down with the ship.

Joe Dan Gold, the school superintendent, rode into Wrigley tall in the saddle with his white hat on — nope, sorry, that was his white hair, and his posse right beside him. That would be the school board members.

Like a heavyweight wrestling match with a lot of tag-teamin' this "rumble in the jungle" began with Joe Dan givin' a speech, and Jane Smith, the school board chairman, a runnin interference for him. But quite frankly, the people of Wrigley didn't want to listen to nothin' they had to say. If it wouldn't be "Yes, you can keep your school in Wrigley," they didn't want to hear it. They wanted to tell their side of the story.

Kenny "Gravedigger" Perry got up and gave the openin' speech for the Wriglians, and he explained that "people from Wrigley are territorial." He said that at his house his dog S.B. does his business on every tree and that he follows him around doin' the same thing 'cause "what belongs to me, belongs to me!"

He said the people of Wrigley are the same way, and the bottom line is, "We're not gonna let no one come in here and take our school away from us!"

John David Lewis got up and told the jury (school board) that guidelines and laws are one thing, but they're not etched in stone. He said the only thing he wanted etched in stone was his name on a tombstone. Listenin' to the Wrigley crowd and how riled up they were a gettin', I thought maybe before the night was done, the only name on that tombstone might be Joe Dan's.

Steve O'Connor was the mediator and he had his hands full as the line of folks wantin' to speak their piece grew longer and longer. Ed Beasley, Tim Smith, Naomi Collins, Tammy Gibson, Brandon Beasley, Patty Hutchinson, Stacy Whitt, Burman Fields, and Erica Blevins, to name a few, throwed every question they had at the school superintendent. It was like a tag team wrestlin' match as each Wriglian took their turn in the ring, but if every question was a choke hold, Joe Dan managed to wiggle out of it.

John Whitt got up and told everybody that him and his wife, Linda, had offered the board a piece of land for a new school or $300,000 to buy a piece of land near Wrigley to build it on.

John Whitt and Derrick Whitt pinned Joe Dan down with the question, "Is the new elementary school at Greear built on a flood plain?" Joe Dan apparently has wrestled before, 'cause them two tag teamin' him still couldn't get him to say uncle.

Kenny Perry offered to mud wrestle Joe Dan for the new school, but everybody knew that wasn't gonna happen.

Melissa Lewis got up and gave Melannie Barker, Wrigley's member on the school board, her two cents worth, and that exchange got a little hot. That's when it hit me! We should have charged admission! You know, for a good cause—maybe a new school in Wrigley, 'cause it was plain to see we wasn't gonna get nothin' out of the school board.

Then Tim Conley got up and said he would be willin' to lead a delegation to Frankfort if decided we wanted to try to get the current laws about sites for new schools changed.

Circuit Court Judge candidate Mike Fox got up and the first words that came out of his mouth were, "I can tell the people of Wrigley take pride in their community and school just by looking at how shiny and clean the floors are in this school." He said, "We should make the school board members aware of how many Wrigley children that are not yet of school age and account for parents who may decide to send students to Wrigley from other schools because Wrigley has some of the highest test scores in the nation." He said, "The new school's demographics should be based on the future, not the present."

Well! That's how the PTO meetin' went as I saw it. Nothin' was resolved and if it comes down to deal or no deal, well it don't look good for Wrigley." You know what? I could sit here and write this article and make Joe Dan Gold the villain (Come to think of it, I did a pretty good job, didn't I?). I could try to make this article sound clever and funny, but the reality of the situation is, it ain't no laughin' matter.

To give Joe Dan and the school board credit, accordin' to them, they are doing exactly what they were hired to do within the limits of the law.

But to the credit of the people of Wrigley, we came together as a community that fateful night at the Wrigley School, a school that served the families of the Wrigley area since 1936, a school my grandpa helped build, a school my mother went to, I went to, a school, that I'm sure all 200 people that attended the meeting—Democrat, Republican, rich or poor, Christian or Baptist—came for one reason, a CAUSE WORTH FIGHTING FOR—TO KEEP FROM LOSING SOMETHING FOREVER THAT HAS BEEN HANDED DOWN FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION—THE HEART OF OUR COMMUNITY.

The Wrigley School is like a second home to the children that go there and their teachers and teacher aides are like their other parents. These kids don't want to be moved in the middle of the school year to another school. Bottom line: We don't want a school anywhere but Wrigley.

Laws can be changed, rules can be adjusted and exceptions can be made.

John Will Stacy, Tim Conley, Democrats and Republicans, I think I speak for all of the Wrigley area when I say, "The ball is in your court! We elected you to do what the people want. It's clear the people of Wrigley want our school left in Wrigley!"

Right now, I know how the Indians felt when they were told they were gonna be put on a reservation!

Tellin' it like it is.

Internet access cost-sharing program for local farmers

According to a 2005 USDA survey, fewer Kentucky farmers have access to the Internet (30 percent) compared to farmers in all other states. To remain competitive, farmers need the latest information including weather, market reports, equipment updates and sales opportunities.

Using county Phase I tobacco dollars, the Morgan County Ag Development Council will be the first county in the state to offer a Satellite Broadband Cost-Share program for farmers. The purpose of the program will be able to aid farmers in accessing the Internet via DSL, cable or wireless broadband service.

Applications for this program can be found at the Morgan County Extension Office (110 Court St.), the Morgan County Judge Executive's office (450 Prestonsburg St.). Applications must be fully completed and a farm serial number must be supplied. Hand-delivered applications will not be accepted. Delivery confirmation is highly encouraged.

The grant will cover 50 percent of the cost of equipment and installation provided by a satellite broadband provider will not exceed $250 per producer and 50 percent of the cost of satellite broadband service for a period of one year, not to exceed $40 per month ($480 for the one year) per producer. The grant must be matched dollar for dollar and a 50 percent cost share basis. Receipts will be accepted from Jan. 1, 2006. Total reimbursement amount will not exceed $730.

Participating producers shall be tobacco dependent with one of the following as documented proof: evidence of a past Phase II payment; evidence of enrollment in the Tobacco Transition Payment program; or an executed current marketing contract for tobacco production. To be eligible for reimbursement on one year of service, the producer must have equipment installed and a copy of signed service contract (minimum of one-year).

JACK FROST

Jack frost came a sneekin;
oone chilly, autumn night.
Woludn't you know?
He touched everything in sight!

Oh, he paints a pretty picture, as we see by the rising sun.
The beauty of his work shows,
But not the change he has done

The weeds and the flowers,
the tomatoes and the corn,
All were banging their heads,
By the middle of the morn.

So once again ol' Jack,
Puts an end to the growin'
He came and went quickly,
Without his face shoven'!

By, Joan Kyar-Frayholtz.

Of The Mountains

The Courtyard

The mud slinging, vote-buying and stealing, emotion-charged, brand of politickin' that often marked Morgan County elections in former times was probably enjoyed by those who practiced it and interesting to watch for the few who were in a position to remain uninvolved and above the fray. Truth be told, we don't miss it much. But one bit of our past that has slipped from the scene with the passing of the years was caught in the following peacen by the late Walter Franklin, who served for many years as Morgan County's circuit clerk.

The Courtyard

As courthouses come
an' courtyards go,
There's a heap of shavin's
Fer the winds to blow.
'Cause the whittlers may
All while away the days,
Jes' whittlin' on sticks
In many ways.

A whittler's stick
Is slick as a gut,
Usually the choicest
Of a cedar cut,
An' the curlycue shavin'
Rolls off in a twist
At the slidin' of a blade
An' flex of a wrist.

All day they whittle
With a break for a snack,
But they're not long gone
'Till they're all right back;
All 'neath the shade
Of a sprangled big tree,
Shavin' a cedar stick
To a needle-like tee.

Set aside concentration
Of the whittler's deep aim,
An' the traders in knives
Must stake their claim.
An' there is droppin'
An' sight unseen
'Till real t'boot talkin'
Gets awfully blamed keen.

Somebody gets a skinnin'
But it doesn't last long,
'Cause the fella with a Barlow
With a broken blade
Trades for a double X
Over in another shade.

A dollar to boot
Or fifty cents to pull a blade
And the best kind of knife
Is offered in the trade . . .
Try it on the stick
An it shaves razor thin,
An' th' boot goes up
As another quarter goes in.

Every whittler in th' yard
Has his own sittin' spot,
An' to move elsewhere
He's jes' as soon not,
Cause his pile of shavin's
Are either left or right
An' only the winters

Can hide them from sight.

The years meander on
Down the spiral of time
As the whittlers philosophize
In reason an' rhyme,
Tellin' great wild tales
Which are loaded sky high,
Th' kinda tellin' tales
Most apt t'be a lie.

Blessings on them
As they heed day's call
To whittle an' fuss
From spring 'till fall . . .
As they sum up problems
Of the world today
An' make their decisions
Come what may.

As courthouses come
An' courtyards go
From the bounce of the robin
To the flurry of snow,
Comes the ole whittlers
To the shade of a tree
To fuss an' to argue
To agree or disagree.

Franklin

You Don't Say!

Over the years I have found it best when starting off a talk to any audience to help the listeners remember that, to many, rather odd name of mine. So frequently, when rising to speak, I congratulate the chairman on "pronouncing my name correctly, more or less," and tell this anecdote.

When working as a newspaperman in Tokyo, Japan, some years ago, I attended a Japanese Imperial Garden Party, along with other foreign correspondents, diplomats, foreign office officials in Tokyo, and so on.

One such event included an elderly official, who, when we were introduced, asked me to repeat my name. I did, and again he said, "Please, a bit louder in all this confusion at the reception."

When I'd done this a couple of times, the old chap finally smiled sadly, cupped a hand behind one ear, and confided, "I'm very sorry, I'm a bit deaf. Do you have a card? It still sounds like you're saying Misselwitz."

Henry F. Misselwitz

A Funny

Two Dachshunds were chatting.

"I can't figure it out," said the first dog. "I'm in perfect physical shape, but I'm constantly anxious."

"Why don't you go to a psychiatrist?" said the second.

"How can I? I'm not allowed on the couch."

Thank you!

I would like to thank all who had a part in any way in helping with the entertainment at Old Mill Park during the 36th annual Morgan County Sorghum Festival. The inclement weather made for a difficult weekend, but everyone pulled together and things went off well. Special thanks to Bill Trusty, EKCC, and Potter Funeral Home. Thanks, also to the bands that braved the weather and came out to perform, and to the diehard fans who also braved the elements to be at Old Mill Park!

Many thanks, Lanny Franklin, Chairman, Old Mill Park Entertainment

Presidential Wit

One afternoon President Abraham Lincoln found his desk a heartrendering appeal for a pardon, unsupported by the usual sheaf of letters from influential sponsors.

"What," asked the President, "has this man no friends?"

The adjutant at Lincoln's side assured him that the man hadn't a once.

"Then I will be his friend," said Lincoln. He signed the pardon.

Mike Havens thanks supporters

A heartfelt thanks to my friends and supporters who braved the inclement weather and came to our performance during the Morgan County Sorghum Festival. We were scheduled to perform on Main Street at 3 p.m., however that had to be cancelled due to the prediction of severe storms for the area. But we were able to perform at 6 p.m. in Old Mill Park, and were delighted to see you there.

Many thanks to the Sorghum Festival Committee for allowing us to have a part in the 36th annual festival. We consider it an honor to perform for our friends and neighbors in Morgan County.

I always want to express my appreciation to my band members--Debi Brandenburg Horton, Lenny Centers, Roy Lee Centers, Jr., and Mitch Bentley--who make up Blue Mountain Grass. They are a very talented group of individuals and work very hard.

Thanks to all who bought CDs. If anyone would like to purchase CDs, they are on sale at Lykins' Pawn Shop, in West Liberty, or at CJ's Quik Stop, at Greear.

--Yours truly, Mike Havens (pd)

Governor Fletcher's troubles continue

By Todd Duvall

FRANKFORT — Anyone who thought the agreement dismissing charges against Gov. Ernie Fletcher for violating state Merit System laws would bring about a sunny new day for the embattled governor must rethink their assumptions.

It just didn't happen. The clouds hanging over the Governor's Mansion are as dark and stormy as they were before Attorney General Greg Stumbo agreed to a plea deal in which Fletcher admitted evidence indicated his administration violated Merit System job protections of state employees.

Fletcher's continuing problem, of course, involves the leaders of his own Republican Party, who are still convinced Fletcher cannot be re-elected next year to a second four-year term in office. They're fearful that more than a decade of Republican ascendancy in Kentucky politics can be wiped out by a failed Fletcher administration.

Combine Fletcher's weaknesses with a growing public opposition to President George W. Bush and the war in Iraq and those Republican leaders' fears are entirely justified.

Only last week, Fletcher's dwindling number of supporters was unable to unseat the chairman of the Jefferson County GOP who has been highly critical of Fletcher. That failure follows on Fletcher also failing to remove the state party chairman last spring. Those two rebuffs alone are indicative of just how low Fletcher has fallen in regard by his fellow Republican leaders.

And as much as the hiring scandal has damaged Fletcher politically, his mistakes only add to the impression that he and his closest appointees are way over their heads in administering a sprawling state government operation.

Fletcher can't even get an appointment to the Murray State University Board of Regents right without controversy, criticism and yet another lawsuit to defend against in court. Come election time next year, Murray's legions of Western Kentucky alumni and supporters are not to be taken lightly.

Fletcher also enters the last year of his term with practically an entirely new and largely untried Executive Cabinet. The exodus has been going on for months and includes, of course, Lieutenant Governor Steve Pence, who remains with the title and salary but no responsibilities since he announced this summer he won't run for re-election with Fletcher in 2007. Pence is, in fact, high on most lists of likely Republicans to oppose Fletcher in next May's Republican primary.

The latest and most critical of the departing cabinet heads is Environmental Protection Secretary LaJuana Wilcher, whose regulatory duties involved everything from boxing and wrestling matches, banks and insurance companies and alcohol sales to coal mine safety and water quality — and that's only the half of it.

Wilcher is earning generally high praise for handling what many thought was an utterly unmanageable cabinet when Fletcher put it together three years ago.

Wilcher's successor, Public Service Commission Vice Chairman, Teresa J. Hill, is an unproven question mark in arguably the most difficult job in Frankfort.

Hill may do just fine, but Fletcher would have been better advised to get down on his knees and beg Wilcher to stay through the next year. A horse racing or charitable gaming scandal in his final year before the 2007 primary could prove to be the final straw that breaks the backs of Fletcher's remaining supporters.

And once again, it needn't have happened. It seems that in the next two years, perhaps as many as one-third of state employees will be able to retire. A first term of restraint in loading Republicans onto the state payroll — plus a lot less communications by e-mail — could have allowed Fletcher easy re-election and the opportunity to fill 10,000 or 11,000 state jobs with loyal Republicans without anything the attorney general could do about it.

That fact alone could drive state GOP leaders to further fury at what Fletcher has wrought for them.

New elem. school first step in dist. long-range plan

The Morgan County School District's long-range facilities plan, developed in 2004, is on track with the construction nearly complete on one of two elementary school buildings to replace older buildings at Cannel City and Wrigley.

The plan has four priorities, the first being construction of two new elementary schools to replace the WPA-built school buildings at Wrigley and Cannel City. Each of the new schools will be designed to accommodate around 350 elementary and preschool students and will eliminate the need for West Liberty Elementary, which now accommodates around 350 students.

The long-range plan's next priority is renovation of the Morgan County High School building.

After these projects are completed, the plan calls for converting the vacated West Liberty Elementary building for use as an administration building.

Following negotiations with property owners, the board of education acquired a site on U.S. 460 near Greear for a new elementary school to replace the old school building at Cannel City. To be named Morgan County Central Elementary, it is scheduled to open in February 2007.

The board is still seeking a site north of West Liberty for a new school building to serve the Wrigley area.

A site proposed for the new school along along Key. 7 atop the Wrigley Hill was considered by the local board but was rejected by the state Department of Education because part of the proposed location would be on fill material placed there during relocation of the Wrigley Hill sector of Key. 7.

Wrigley residents are continuing to lobby for the Wrigley Hill location or a site in or near the community.

Morgan dominated the net in the first set with 3 kills each by Goforth and Howard, a kill each by Peyton and Dulen and a block by Eagle, along with good backcourt coverage from Steele, Coffey, Jarvis, Cantrell and Harper, who also served for 7 straight points.

In the second set, Goforth had 2 kills and a block, Peyton had 2 tips and a block, Eagle had a block and a kill, Dulen had 2 tips, and Howard had 2 kills and 2 tips.

Coach Hensley praised the Lady Cougars for good all round play.

ELECT MIKE GEVEDON DEMOCRAT MORGAN COUNTY JUDGE/EXECUTIVE

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to the citizens of Morgan County and give you a little information about my family and myself. I am the son of Vernon Gevedon and the late Deloris Conley-Gevedon of Grassy Creek. My only sister, Kimberly, lost her battle with breast cancer in 1993, at the age of 31. My wife, Debbie, is the daughter of the late Buford A. and Mary Perkins-Lykins of Stacy Fork. Debbie has worked for Commercial Bank for the past twenty-five years and currently holds the position of Compliance Officer. We reside in the upper Grassy Creek area, on the same farm where I was raised. We have one son, Travis, who is working as the Chief Production Chemist for Life Industries, Inc., a company based in Charleston, S.C., where he currently resides.

My wife and I both graduated from Morgan County High School in 1970 and married that same year. I farmed and we ran a small business until my uncle, the late Lloyd Conley, and I built and began operating Conley & Gevedon Ashland Service in 1976. Our business was located in Index, at the intersection of Hwy. 460 and Hwy. 191, and was operated under our ownership for twenty-six years. That same business is now known as Cougar Corner. I enjoyed watching so many of our county's younger generation grow up through the windows of their parent's vehicles during the years we ran our business.

I have represented Morgan County for twenty-five years as magistrate of our county's fifth district and have taken that position very seriously. I have made it a priority to attend the regular monthly Fiscal Court meetings, and I don't recall missing more than three, throughout my entire span of county government service. Operating a local business within my district throughout most of those twenty-five years has made me readily available to those of you who have needed my services for any reason.

It is my belief that the best quality a county judge could have is to listen to you, the citizens of this county. I will listen to your concerns, hear your questions, and give you a fair and honest answer. I will use the qualities that have come with my past experience in business, public service, and local government to help ensure progress for Morgan County. I will work closely and fully cooperate with state and local officials to promote that progress. Many good things can be accomplished for our county if we work as a team, remain focused on our objectives, and not concern ourselves with who takes the credit.

Thank You

Your Vote And Support Is Greatly Appreciated!

Plowshares to postcards: economic success via tourism

"A growing number of rural counties and small towns that are struggling economically are showcasing their history and culture through folk art projects, historic museums and festivals, according to tourism officials," reports Samira Jafari of The Associated Press bureau in Pikeville, Ky.

The story focuses on Elliott County in northeastern Kentucky. It is one of the nation's poorest, and faces more economic reverses with the end of the federal tobacco program. About 20 barns that were once used to cure tobacco are being painted with murals of tobacco-farming scenes to attract tourists.

An earlier set displayed images of quilts. The project is pushed by Gwendia Adkins, a University of Kentucky extension agent. "We're not dumb, ignorant hillbillies," she said. "We have a culture worth sharing and people will pay to come here and see it." The $94,000 project is funded by the W. Paul and Lucille Caudill Little Foundation of Kentucky, reports The Daily Independent of Ashland.

Such efforts "seem to be paying off," AP reports. "Sixty-two percent of U.S. adults, or 87 million, have taken a trip to a small town or village within the past three years and 58 percent, or 84.7 million, included an historic activity or event on a trip during the past year, according to the Travel Industry Association of America. "We're seeing a real increase in travelers and visitors wanting to see small towns and rural areas," Carolyn Brackett of the National Trust for Historic Preservation told Jafari.

Examples abound. Three counties in southeast Tennessee started a tourist trade with their played-out gold and copper mines and railroad line. After the furniture trade began to die down in Lexington, N.C., the town hired artists to paint a series of pig statues to highlight the area's pork barbecue.

Water project to bring service to 137 Elliott homes

State officials recently announced a $7.1 million water project will bring water to 137 homes in Elliott County, with 5.5 miles of new lines to Elliott, Carter and Lawrence counties.

The project, which will serve 399 homes in the Rattlesnake Ridge Water District of Elliott, Carter and Lawrence counties, may be completed by summer 2008.

With funding from the state's Division of Abandoned Mine Lands and each county's coal severance funds, project costs total $3.2 million for water lines and $3.9 million for water tanks, pump stations and water plant upgrades.

State Rep. Rocky Adkins (D-Sandy Hook) is particularly pleased with the project.

"Residents can turn the tap on for good, safe, clean water," Adkins said. "It's been a top priority I've had ever since I've served in the Kentucky legislature; and this has been a team effort with our legislators and administrators, no matter what their political party, county judges and magistrates."

The water district expects to bid the project, which is being designed by Sisler-Maggard Engineering, in early 2007. Public meetings may be held in December with final drawings.

Curves of West Liberty

Elisha Roseberry

My weight problems began when I became pregnant with my first child. More or less I thought I had to eat for two, when in reality if I would have just eaten healthy and exercised, I probably would not have had a weight problem. I put on several extra pounds so I tried dieting, including the Adkins diet, but nothing worked. Exercising at home always seemed to fail because I would start but something would always come up and I would have to stop.

One day my sister and I were in West Liberty and saw the Curves sign. All of a sudden I filled up with excitement. I just knew this was the answer to my prayers. I started working out 3 days a week and did some adjustment to my diet. In the first month I lost 8 lbs. and 10 inches. Overall I lost 31.5 pounds and 47 inches in just one year.

Through Jesus, my Lord and Savior, and Curves, I was able to accomplish this.

Junction News
By Kathy Bolin
Sept. 25--Greetings from the Junction.
Quack! Quack! Does anyone feel like a duck? I am not sure where all of this rain came from, but it sure has put a damper on our communities Sorghum Festival. Saturday morning our rain gauge recorded 4 1/2 inches of rain. That should have been plenty, but on Saturday evening we had another 1 inch of rain dumped on us. We live on Williams Creek at a point where two creeks meet. When the water from the creeks overflow, our hay bottoms look like a giant flowing river. I just hope it never gets to my home. Although it's kind of spooky!
I forgot an important birthday last week of a good friend and neighbor, Alma Cantrell. Alma celebrated her ----birthday. David Bailey, son of Henry and Chassie Bailey, of Coffee's Creek, celebrated his birthday with a birthday dinner at the home of his parents. Helene Wright, wife of Herbert Wright, also celebrated a birthday. On Saturday, the 30th, Linda Ball, co-worker at East Valley Elementary, will also be celebrating a birthday. Happy birthday to all!
I would like to remind everyone that we will be having our annual all day Gospel Singing on October 8 at the Williams Creek Elkfork Church. That evening at 6 p.m. we will start a weeklong revival with Bobby Jenkins, from Fairborn, Ohio. Plan to join us with nightly fellowship and good preaching.
On Saturday it's a hayride! If you would like to join us, be at the church at 1 p.m. After the ride there will be grilled hamburgers and hot dogs under the shelter house. Come join us for some good old fashion fun.
Well, I guess it's time to close. I'll talk with you next week.

Gene Cornett and girls, Amanda and Amber Cornett, of Campton, spent Friday night with his mother, Pearl Cornett, and watched the Sorghum Festival parade Saturday.

Do you know the origin of ‘It’s raining cats and dogs?’

Sometimes people call the weather office and ask what the forecast is. Sometimes they call to check the current temperature. You expect those calls. But then there are the other calls that come in, such as “Do you know why people say /It’s raining cats and dogs/?” With a little research, you learn all sorts of things. The Internet can be a wonderful research tool.

It turns out that the phrase’s origin is really unknown, but, there are several theories that recur. The most likely theory goes back to mythology. According to Brewer’s Dictionary of Phrase and Fable/, cats were thought to influence storms, especially by sailors. Dogs were used as a symbol of storms, often accompanying images and descriptions of the Norse storm god Odin, and were thought to be responsible for the strong winds that often accompany storms. Cats were actually thought to be witches who took on the shape of a cat and rode the storm which caused torrential rainfall. Thus, the saying

Weather safety Flash flooding safety rules

Flash floods and floods are the #1 storm related killer in Kentucky and across the United States.

If driving, DO NOT DRIVE THROUGH FLOODED AREAS! Even if it looks shallow enough to cross. The majority of deaths due to flooding are due to people driving through flooded areas. Water only one foot deep and displace 1500 pounds! Two feet of water can easily carry most vehicles. Roadways concealed by floodwaters may not be intact.

If caught outside, do to higher ground immediately! Avoid small rivers or streams, low spots, culverts, or ravines. Do not try to walk through flowing water more than ankle deep, as it only takes six inches of water to knock you off your feet. Do not allow children to play around streams, drainage ditches, or viaducts, storm drains, or other flooded areas.

If ordered to evacuate or if rising water is threatening, leave immediately and get to higher ground.

Lightning Safety Rules

Lightning is the number two storm related killer. In Kentucky, more people are killed by lightning in an average year than tornadoes. Although severe thunderstorm warnings are NOT issued for lightning, you should move to shelter when thunder is heard as lightning can strike 10 to 15 miles away from where the rain is falling.

If outside, go to a safe shelter immediately, such as inside a sturdy building. A hard top automobile with the windows up can also offer fair protection.

If you are boating or swimming, get out of the water immediately and move to a safe shelter away from the water!

If you are in a wooded area, seek shelter under a thick growth of relatively small trees.

If you feel your hair standing on end, squat with your head between your knees. Do not lie flat!

Avoid: Isolated trees or other tall objects, bodies of water, sheds, fences, convertible automobiles, tractors, and motorcycles.

If inside, avoid using the telephone (except for emergencies) or other electrical appliances.

Do not take a bath or shower during a thunderstorm.

Tornado/Severe Thunderstorm Safety Rules

In a home or building, move to a pre-designated shelter, such as a basement.

If an underground shelter is not available, move to a small interior room or hallway on the lowest floor and get under a sturdy piece of furniture. Put as many walls as possible between you and the outdoors.

Stay away from windows. Get out of automobiles.

Do not try to outrun a tornado in your car; instead, leave it immediately for safe shelter. Do not seek shelter in an underpass.

If caught outside or in a vehicle, lie flat in a nearby ditch or depression and cover your head with your hands.

Be aware of flying debris. Flying debris from tornadoes and high winds causes most fatalities and injuries.

Mobile homes, even if tied down, offer little protection from tornadoes or high winds. You should leave a mobile home and go to the lowest floor of a sturdy building or storm shelter.

DID YOU KNOW
Did you know that if your local Volunteer Fire Department can qualify for state aid funds, that money cannot be spent for vehicle insurance, gasoline or utilities?

of /raining cats and dogs/ refers to both the heavy rain and strong winds from the storms.

There is another theory from the Facts on File Encyclopedia of Word and Phrase Origins/ on the old expression that is traced to medieval Britain. Poor construction practices led to villages to become subject to flooding; often the streets would become raging rivers. After the floodwaters receded, dead animals, including dogs and cats, would be found. The local villagers looking upon the numerous dead animals could only think that the bodies must have “rained” down from the storm. Hoping to think our ancestors were not so dim witted, a slightly better theory is that roofs in England during this time period were often constructed from thatched grasses that extended to almost ground level. Seeking warmth, all sorts of little animals would seek shelter by climbing and burying into the roofs, including dogs and cats. During a heavy rain, the grass roof would become slippery, and cats and dogs would come sliding off – thus appearing to be “raining cats and dogs”.

Another theory is a corruption of the archaic French word of “catadoupe,” which means a waterfall. The pronunciation of the word, especially by the non-French speaking people of early England sounds a little like ‘cats and dogs’. Today however, the equivalent French expression for “it’s raining cats and dogs” is “il tombe des cordes/” (it’s raining ropes).

Whatever the origin, when we hear someone say that it is raining cats and dogs, we don’t expect a drop-in-the-bucket, but to batten down the hatches because it is coming a gully-washer, or it’s coming down by the bucket-full, or even, that it is going to be a real frog-strangler.

Flags In Disrepair No Way To Honor Those Who Died

Some have deplored the sad condition of many of the American Flags flying over public buildings and locations in this area. Memorial Day, May 30, is a patriotic holiday, a day set aside by law to honor American servicemen and women who gave their lives for our country. This year, a fitting way to show our respect for those who died to preserve our great Republic and the freedoms it guarantees would be to inspect our flags and clean, repair, or replace those that are dirty, tattered, or torn. Sadly, too many flying in our county today are in a bad state of disrepair.

Our national flag may be mended, dry-cleaned, or washed. If it is no longer fit to be displayed, it should be destroyed in some dignified way, preferably by burning, and replaced. Let’s honor our fallen servicemen and women by honoring Old Glory not only on Memorial Day, but everyday.

The faculty and staff at West Liberty Elementary wanted to recognize students and their families for successfully reaching desired goals. WLES students gave everyone a reason to celebrate by achieving 10 out of 10 of the Annual Progress Goals. WLES initiatives teamed up with Reading First and local volunteers to ensure a great time for everyone during the Open House. The celebration had something for everyone to enjoy, including hamburgers and hotdogs prepared by grill master Howard Elam. Using Commercial Bank’s huge grills, Howard prepared over 300 hamburgers and over 400 hotdogs.

Teachers from each grade level designed stations complete with props and costumes for everyone to visit. Each station helped show parents and visitors ways to help improve reading, comprehension, open response and writing.

A grand total of 342 parents registered for the event. WLES Principal Janea Chaney would like to extend a gracious thank you to the students, their families, and the staff for their creativity and efforts to accomplish that ‘No Child is Left Behind’.

Rebecca K. Phillips knows the value of hard work.

Growing up on her family farm, Rebecca watched her parents work on the farm of the evening after teaching all day. Following this example, Rebecca developed a strong work ethic. In her ten years as an attorney, Rebecca put this work ethic to use for her clients, frequently working evenings and weekends to ensure that her clients’ interests were served. Now, as Circuit Judge, Rebecca is putting this work ethic to use for the people of Carter, Elliott, and Morgan Counties, and she will continue to work hard to ensure that the people’s interests are served.

Rebecca K. Phillips believes the Courtroom should be a level playing field for everyone.

Decisions of the Court should be based upon the facts and the law, and all citizens should be treated fairly and equally, regardless of income level or social standing. As Circuit Judge, this is the way Rebecca conducts her Courtroom now, and the way she will continue to conduct her Courtroom in the future.

On November 7th, help keep Rebecca K.
Phillips as YOUR Circuit Judge.

Iwo Jima vet honored at festival

Jerald Amyx, right, of West Liberty, a Marine Corp combat veteran who survived the Battle of Iwo Jima, one of the bloodiest engagements of World War II, was honored prior to the Sorghum Parade Saturday by Mayor Bob Nickell, who said he thought the recognition was "overdue." Nickell, who rode with Amyx in the parade, is a former Marine and served in Vietnam.

Neglect is form of child abuse, experts say

Neglect is the failure to act on behalf of a child. It is an act of omission. Neglect may be thought of as child rearing practices which are essentially inadequate or dangerous. Neglect may not produce visible signs, and it usually occurs over a period of time. Neglect is generally physically or emotional.

Physical neglect is a failure to meet the requirements basic to a child's physical development, such as supervision, housing, clothing, medical attention, nutrition and support. It should be noted here that some social service agencies further break this category into more specific acts of omission, such as medical neglect, lack of proper supervision, or educational neglect.

Emotional neglect is a failure to provide the support or affection necessary to a child's psychological and social development. Failure on the part of the parent to provide the praise, nurturance, love, or security essential to the child's development of a sound and healthy personality may constitute emotional neglect.

To cause a report of child abuse or neglect to be made, or to obtain information on how to help prevent it, please call out hotline number at 1-800-468-8920.

Another week has come and gone. Mondays seem to be the busiest time of the week getting this article ready, contacting board members, entertaining farmers' ideas by phone, and marketing Agri-Tourism by way of radio and newspaper.

It is difficult to overemphasize the tourism industry's position in the global economy. In fact, if there were a county called "Tourism" it would have a gross national product of $3.6 trillion, the second largest in the world. This massive industry also provides nearly 10 percent of all employment worldwide, but we still have room for expansion in tourism.

Tourism is Appalachia. Despite its array of attractions, natural, historic, and cultural, tourism in Appalachia will consist of visitors coming and enjoying the region's scenic beauty and hospitality. Visitors bring much needed cash into the local economy, and Appalachia has numerous features that make it well qualified to compete for a slice of the massive tourist pie.

One of the most famous recreational attractions is the Appalachian Trail. Folks wanting to hike would enjoy this attraction. We're blessed with rivers, lakes and streams for visitors to embrace fishing and canoeing. Forests make up 90 percent of the Appalachian region and are easily accessible from public roadways and park areas.

While outdoor sports enthusiasts choose vacation destinations on the basis of specific natural features, a large number of vacationers are interested in natural environment as a scenic whole. Just imagine these sites on you land making you money.

Join the Agri-Tourism project, which seeks to develop tourist attractions on your lands replacing tobacco as the cash crop. This could include hiking, fishing, and canoeing, to name a few. Contact our office at 606-738-5576 Monday through Friday 10-4 Life lessons to remember. If you can't say anything good about someone, it's better to say nothing at all.

Wal-Mart plans to abandon uniform approach in stores

Wal-Mart Stores Inc. hopes to boost sales by abandoning its practice of stocking mostly the same products at every store, and will instead cater each store's merchandise to demographic groups. "About half of Wal-Mart stores are in rural areas. Their product mix will change the least," Ann Zimmerman reports for The Wall Street Journal.

The company will stock stores with items to reflect rural tastes and five other demographic groups — African-Americans, the affluent, empty-nesters, Hispanics, and suburbanites. "Wal-Mart's attempt to break its approximately 3,400 U.S. stores into six different models is a huge shift for a company that grew to be the largest retailer in the world on the strength of standardization," Zimmerman writes.

"Wal-Mart got its start in rural Arkansas in 1962, and grew to prominence by building stores in small towns where executives knew what sold. As the company expanded into suburban and urban areas, Wal-Mart's culture remained very focused on Bentonville. Most decisions, including on store layouts and even on how product should be arranged on shelves, were made at company headquarters." Now the company's regional managers live in the regions they handle.

The deadline to place heifers with the East Ky Heifer Development program in Perry County is Oct. 1. Contact Sarah Fannin-Holliday at the Morgan County Extension Service for consignment forms.

All heifers accepted in the program will be A.I. bred and developed under the guidelines set by UK and MSU beef specialists. The heifers will be kept at D &

D Ranch. All heifers have to meet or exceed 160 sp. cm. pelvic area. If you choose, heifers are then sold at a special sale held in September at the Lee City stockyards. There are some changes for the 2006-2007 year. First, all consignors are to be PVP certified. This certification takes about one hour and will be available via the extension office. You will need to have this certification completed by March 2007. It would be best if you would go ahead and get the certification before your heifers are delivered. Without this certification, you will not be able to sale any cull heifers in the CHP sale. Stockyards are now requiring this certification for their CPH sales.

The second change is that there will be a flat rate fee charge for the 2006-2007 program. The rate will be $35 per month during winter months up through May and then $20 per month through September. Heifers that go home in August would have a cost of around $305 per head. Heifers that go through September to the sale would have a cost of around $325.

This rate will include everything – feed, management fees, vet services and breeding charges. There are charges being made to make the program more equal to everyone, and everyone will know up front exactly what it is going to cost them.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES

by Joe Nickell

PERSIMMON RECIPES. In the previous "Historical Sketches" we looked at the American persimmon, a native variety encountered by the early settlers of the eastern frontier. From the Indians they learned to turn the ripe fruit into delicacies.

According to Old-Fashioned Persimmon Recipes (2004 – see Acknowledgments): "Generations of imaginative American homemakers have improved upon those early pioneer recipes steamed in kettles at the open hearth or on the primitive woodburning stove. Today persimmon pudding has become to Midwestern and Southern uplanders what cranberry dishes are to New Englanders." Here are some of the offerings:

Walnut Persimmon Pudding. This requires 2 cups of flour, 1 cup of sugar, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda and 1 teaspoon cinnamon, along with 3/4 cup of milk, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup each of raisins and walnuts, 1/2 cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup persimmon pulp.

Sift the dry ingredients together, adding walnuts and raisins. Beat the eggs and add them to the persimmon pulp, followed by the butter, vanilla and milk. Now add that mixture to the dry ingredients, stir well and pour into a 9- by 13- inch pan and bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes, or until it is firm in texture. Serve topped with ice cream or whipped cream.

Spiced Persimmon Bread. For this you will need 3 cups of flour and 2 of sugar, along with 1 teaspoon each of nutmeg, cinnamon and ground cloves; 2 eggs, 1-1/2 cups vegetable oil and 2 cups of persimmon pulp; 1/2 cup each of raisins and chopped nuts.

Into a bowl, sift the dry ingredients. Separately, beat the eggs, add to the pulp and then add the oil. Mix the dry ingredients into the pulp mixture, followed by the nuts and raisins. Pour this batter into two loaf pans that have been well greased and bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

An old ice cream freezer like this was used to make persimmon ice cream, one of many tasty foods obtainable from the American persimmon. (From an old book illustration.)

Persimmon Ice Cream. This requires 2-3/4 cups of sugar and 3/4 cups persimmon pulp, along with 2 tablespoons of flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 8 eggs, 1 pint heavy cream, 3 tablespoons lemon juice and milk.

Combine the sugar and persimmon pulp, then add the flour, eggs (lightly beaten), salt, cream and lemon juice, and stir. Pour into an ice cream freezer, adding milk until the mixture is approximately three inches from the top. Church according to the freezer's directions.

Cougars fumble away shot for Sorghum Bowl victory

Turnovers put Morgan County in early 20-0 hole

By David Patrick

West Carter scored three touchdowns—all with the aid of Cougar fumbles—as the Comets squeaked out a 20-14 victory over Morgan County in the Sorghum Bowl. The Cougars were their own worst enemy, fumbling five times—with the last coming on a potential game-winning drive in the fourth quarter.

Morgan's turnover parade began midway through the first quarter as Comet defensive lineman Cody Roe recovered a fumble on the Cougar 27 yard line. West quickly turned it into points when James Frint scored from a yard out for a 7-0 Comet led. Just one minute later, Morgan gain coughed up the football—this time on its own 12 yard line. And on the very next play, the Comets cashed in as Ace Puckett found Justin Wolfe on a 12 yard touchdown pass for a 14-0 lead.

MCMS beats Nicholas Co.; to play Fleming here today

By Joe Willie

The Morgan County Middle Cougar gridders hosted the Nicholas County Jackets last Thursday and came away with an impressive 32-6 victory.

Morgan started the scoring in the first quarter on their initial drive with quarterback Jared Curd scoring on a 60-yard run and following with a run for the two-point conversion to take an 8-0 lead.

The Nicholas County Jackets followed with a score to cut the lead to 8-6. Morgan then scored on runs of 35 yards by Cory Ciarrocchi and a 51-yarder by Ryan Flannery with successful two-point conversions on both scores to go up 24-6 at the half.

The third quarter went scoreless, but in the fourth, Morgan

Cougar receiver Wes Montgomery (in dark jersey) beats a Comet defender for a spectacular pass reception in the fourth quarter in Friday's bowl game.

After a Cougar punt, Randy Wood saw his defense come to the rescue as Clay Adkins and Jacob Flack collected back-to-back quarterback sacks. But Morgan's next possession resulted in another fumble deep in its own territory. The Comets again turned it into points as Frint scored his second TD for a 20-0 lead.

Morgan finally held onto the football and put points on the board midway through the second quarter. John Robert Henderson picked up a pair of first down runs, with the latter being a beautiful 19 yard gain that put the ball inside the 1 yard line. From there Henderson found his way into the end zone with a quarterback sneak to make it 20-6.

The Cougars then got fumble recovery of their own from Clay Adkins and an interception by John Robert Henderson to halt two West Carter drives and keep the deficit at 14 at the half.

Morgan managed to put immediate pressure on the Comets early in the third quarter. After a 38 yard carry was negated by a Cougar penalty, John Robert Henderson pulled off one better with a 40 yard scamper that went for a touchdown. It was Henderson's second score of the night and pulled the Cougars within striking distance, 20-14.

But Morgan quickly fell back to its old habits, fumbling with 3:45 left in the third to short circuit another drive. The Cougars again found themselves moving the football late in the fourth quarter, thanks to a circus over-the-shoulder catch by Wes Montgomery. But three plays later Morgan fumbled for the final time, and with it watched the clock tick away on a disappointing 20-14 loss.

Morgan County outgained the Comets in totaled yards, 192-173. John Robert Henderson was responsible for the bulk of that, accounting for 121 all-purpose yards.

Lady Cougars split with a pair in recent action

After two great wins over Lewis County and East Carter, the MCHS volleyball couldn't keep it going when Fleming County came to town Sept. 19.

Morgan fell short 16-25 in the first set largely due to a failure to communicate on the court. The Lady Cougars let seven balls hit the floor, and there were holes in the team's normally-tough net game. For the Lady Cougars, Goforth scored 1 kill and a tip in the first set, Dulen had 1 kill and a tip, Howard 1 kill, and Peyton had a tip.

Morgan showed some improvement in the second set as the team began to pick up its net game, but still fell short, 21-25. Goforth had 2 kills and a block, Peyton 2 kills and a block, Dulen 2 kills and a tip, and Howard 3 kills and block.

Coach Tammy Hensley said the lack of communication between the diggers and setters improved, but said her charges just found their game a little too late in the game to make a difference in the outcome.

The Lady Cougars emerged victorious Sept. 21 in a road game at Lee County, winning 25-14 and 25-11.

Fall Tennis League

By Danny Clark

Tennis play is just finishing its third week of competition. It's hard to believe that soon we will be half way through our season. Everyone is enjoying the play and the weather had been ideal up until this week. Many of this week's match play had to be postponed.

There are a total of 47 tennis players this fall in four divisions, men's, women's, boys, and girls. Many of the players are from the same family but most are divided into different divisions. However, there are two sets of mother/daughter players in the women's division.

At the end of three weeks of play, with many games needing to be made up due to the rainouts, here are the current standings:

Men's Division — Tommy Hill 3-0, Addison Whitt 2-0, David Joe Litteral 2-0, Larry Henderson 2-0, Howard Elam 2-0.

Women's Division — Vicky Oldfield 3-0, Hope Litteral 2-0.

Boys' Division — Kevin Lykins 3-0, Parker May 3-0.

Girls' Division — Lacy May 2-0.

Some of the most competitive matches in weeks 1 and 2 are as

Confidence Builder

Most coaches and players don't like to talk about "moral victories." After all, who wants praise for getting beat?

When the Wildcats traveled to Gainesville last weekend to take on fifth-ranked Florida, most of us expected a loss. And even though that's exactly what happened, this one had a different feel—a good feel. It was a loss without being embarrassed. A loss that actually earned respect.

First of all, Kentucky was competitive to the point that it didn't look totally outclassed. Although the Gators pulled away in the second half, Florida had all it could handle for the first 30 minutes. After a trick play netted Urban Meyer's team an early touchdown, the Wildcats nearly held Florida scoreless the remainder of the half. Kentucky even took a brief lead late in the half when Andre Woodson threw his 10th touchdown pass of the season.

The Wildcats are finally showing visible signs of progress. I have to believe that any SEC player or coach that watched last Saturday's game does have a new-found respect for the Wildcats. Rich Brooks' team really looked as if it belonged in that environment—playing in front of a hostile crowd and a national television audience. Even the ESPN analysts gave the Cats kudos time and time again for their play. Woodson looked every bit as good as Chris Leak in the first half before Florida's depth began wearing down UK's offense late in the game.

I believe it's a game that's given UK another shot of confidence. Rich Brooks had hoped his team would continue the momentum established over the previous two weeks, and it did.

"We can take a lot of pride (in how we played)," said defensive end Durrell White. "We fought until the very end, we stuck together and didn't quit. We now get to come back home and try to make it tough for other teams to
